CFD Majors, CFD Minors, Psychology Majors, Liberal Studies Majors and Interdisciplinary Studies Majors ~ join Children & Nature ..........

Offered Fall 2021 on T TH from: 2:00 - 3:15 pm

CFD 596: Children and Nature

Description:

This course explores the positive impact of exposure to nature in children’s emotional, social and cognitive development through lecture, demonstration and hands on projects in SDSU Children’s Center Memory Park environment.

Topics include:

- The importance of children developing an emotional connection with nature; the impact of exposure to nature on self-regulation, social development, and attentional development; methods for integrating increased contact with nature into the preschool setting; and nature based therapeutic approaches.

- Satisfies Elective Requirement
- Open to Undergraduate and Graduate Students

*non CFD majors can enroll without the six units of upper division CFD coursework